SUMMARY

I am a reliable, hard-working games design MA graduate looking for my first real role in the games industry. I am eager to work on all kinds of games in a quality assurance role to help ensure the games I participate in creating are as great and complete as possible. Having run my own copywriting business, I have extensive experience managing projects and working to tight deadlines. I have also worked in customer-facing roles, which have honed my communicative skills and my ability to work independently in a high-pressure environment.
